

NAME: Hawkeye

GENDER: Male

DATE OF BIRTH: November 29, 2019

Hawkeye is a huge, gentle white and grey male cat who loves to have his chin and neck scratched if you first get permission by introducing your hand for him to smell. He is strong and muscular, with the big, beautiful but rugged face of a well-worn veteran of encounters while looking for receptive momma cats. Those days are over, and his neutering has made him relaxed, docile, gentle, and purring loudly when his chin and ears are scratched. He has taken to sleeping in the bathroom sink bowl and loves being near a window to look outside.

Although he is tolerant of other cats, Hawkeye takes pains to establish himself as the dominant kitty, mainly through staring contests and strategic physical placement of his body. He would do well with a female or younger kittens he can help raise. Generally, Hawkeye is a loner who prefers his own peaceful place near a window or in the bathroom sink. Hawkeye is an ideal cat for anyone who loves a big giant cat to sleep all day and lay within reach for you to pet and meow his trills to get your attention.

Hawkeye has had a hard life for several years in the cold winter and hot summer of horse barns but is so happy to be inside and to have human affection and attention. He purrs and purrs and long as you have the desire to rub and scratch his ears and chin.

Hawkeye has been happy and healthy other than coping with a sore broken canine tooth. The vet pointed it out but did not seem worried about his tooth at his last visit. He has been neutered, vaccinated, microchipped, and tested negative for FeLV. Hawkeye was found to be HIV+ during his standard vetting. For more information about FIV+ cats please ask Meows Corner staff.

Hawkeye is a great eater and likes all types of Fancy Feast. At the café he is eating Fancy Feast class pate and Purina One dry kibble.
