

NAME: Dexter McCracken (please include his last name when applying, we have 2 Dexters)

GENDER: Male

DATE OF BIRTH: March 29, 2022

Dexter and his sisters Panda and Jackie were found in a woodpile in West Virginia when their mother went missing. The landowner called a rescue to take the kittens into safety. Since that rescue deals mainly with feral cats, they called 4Paws to get them appropriately socialized so they would make good indoor kitties.

Dexter is an orange tabby boy, the largest of the three, and the biggest eater. He looks older than he is because of his size. He has a neat coat and doesn't shed much. Fair warning – Dexter thinks his job is to be the alarm clock at 6:30 am and will start gently nuzzling and milling around his person, purring along, and kneading where you can feel it (if you know what I mean...).

Dexter is protective of his sisters and the other kittens in the foster room. He likes wrestling with the ones who are up for it. He needs to have another cat in his life and became close friends with both boy and girl kittens in his foster room. Dexter would do well in a multi-pet home and will children of all ages. He can be mischievous and hasn't met a trash can he isn't interested in digging out. He loves watching out the front window at night, especially after the neighbor across the street put up their inflatable light-up Halloween decorations. He is fascinated when the windy nights make them sway as if they are alive.

Dexter has had his rabies and distemper vaccinations, microchip, neuter, deworming and flea treatment. He tested negative for FIV and FeLV. He is a big eater and enjoys Fancy Feast classic pate and Purina One sensitive stomach and skin kibble.
